1. A vast propaganda campaign for the execution of the Molotov Economic Plan has lately been in progress in the satellite countries. This socialistic plan promises the people that in a very short time everything they need will be on the market, except that they must be patient until the plan is in full operation. It is charged that the Molotov Plan is being delayed in the satellite countries because of sabotage by the reactionaries. A most resolute struggle is therefore being ordered against the saboteurs of the plan, the foremost of whom are the kulaks (rich peasants) because of their refusal to give up their produce to the state. Charges are also made against those who consider the Marshall Plan better for the people than the Molotov Plan.
2. In Hungary and Rumania and probably in the other satellite countries as well, no positive results of the Molotov Plan have yet been observed. Every day the markets become emptier as the peasants do not bring their produce to market, and the prices of the necessities of life are increasing constantly.
